CITY OF THE WEST

Kettle Falls, Washington, and Its Advantages.

LOCATED ON THE COLUMBIA

At the Famous Falls After Which It Is Named—A Story by One of Its Founders.

Mr. G. H. Smith of the Rochester and Kettle Falls Land company, in speaking of the state of Washington in general and Kettle Falls, Washington, in particular, said to a reporter for THE HERALD yesterday: "I tell you there are some distinguishing conditions that surround the rise and progress of Kettle Falls, its location upon the Columbia at a point where unparalleled water power facilities are offered is of great advantage both now, while the city is young, and hereafter, when the city attains greater proportions. Surrounding the present town site there is a heavy growth of valuable building timber of various kinds. Then there are vast areas of the finest agricultural lands that lie out doors. The mountain ridges are rich in the stores of minerals, both mechanical and precious. The fruit of that region is the finest in the world. The climate is surpassed by none in the world. Another, and, perhaps, the greatest advantage of all is the contiguity of the famous Colville reservation, now about to be opened to settlement.

Millions of Acres.

"This vast area contains nearly three millions of acres and about 1,800,000 acres are sure to be opened within one year. This reservation contains a vast greater acreage of agricultural lands than the famous Oklahoma tract, besides its inexhaustible mineral and timber lands and water power possibilities.

"If there were thousands attracted to Oklahoma there should be tens of thousands at Kettle Falls. And, seriously, that is what will happen there and that is what we want to prepare for. There will be the greatest influx of people at that place that we have ever seen. We want hotels, stores and supply houses of all kinds at Kettle Falls before the rush sets in, for it must be borne in mind that Kettle Falls alone is the gate city to this vast area. It will be the base of supplies for this territory for years to come.

"We do not wish it understood that we are offering property indiscriminately in the town site which our land company owns. Our purpose is to place lots enough on the market to secure a fund to erect a ferry across the Columbia, and to provide our city with a system of water works and other needed improvements."

Mr. Smith, with Mr. Aris, general manager of the company, have opened an office at No. 1 Canal street under the Old National Bank.

The Ladies.

The pleasant effect and perfect safety with which ladies may use the California liquid laxative Syrup of Figs, under all conditions, makes it their favorite remedy. To get the true and genuine article, look for the name of the California Fig Syrup company, printed near the bottom of the package.
